

Antonio Lucianetti received his Ph.D. in physics from University of Bern, Switzerland, in 1999. He is currently a Program Leader in the HiLASE Centre, Institute of Physics, Academy of Sciences of the Czech Republic. His research interests include high-energy cryogenic short pulse lasers, microchip lasers, high-energy optical isolators, laser-driven particle and radiation sources, and laser-based interferometric gravitational wave detectors.